

Malaysia Optical Power Meter OEM

AI Overview

Malaysia has several OEM and distributor options for optical power meters, including AZTEL Corporation, Kabex, and ADV Network Sdn Bhd, offering a range of fiber optic testing solutions. Key OEM and Supplier Options

AZTEL Corporation is a well-established telecommunication equipment provider in Malaysia, offering fiber optic test gear such as OTDRs, optical power meters, splicing machines, and other telecom hardware. They provide OEM solutions and have been serving the industry since 1988, with products traceable to international laboratory standards. Their services include network installation, maintenance, and customized solutions for both active and passive optical networks. Kabex offers a variety of optical power meters suitable for single-mode and multimode fiber networks. Their product line includes pocket-sized, low-cost meters, multifunctional OPMs for long- and short-distance networks, and wavelength-selective meters compatible with G-PON, XGS-PON, and hybrid systems. Kabex also provides kits combining optical power meters with light sources for installation and maintenance purposes. ADV Network Sdn Bhd supplies the ADV1227 series optical power meters, featuring microcomputer control, large-screen LCDs, and precision measurement across 850–1625 nm wavelengths. These meters are widely used in optical fiber communications, CATV, and fiber optic sensors, making them suitable for both scientific research and engineering applications. Distributors and Online Retailers such as Shopee Malaysia also offer optical power meters like the NOYAFA NF-919, which combines fiber testing, optical power measurement, and light source functions in a single device, suitable for smaller-scale or field applications. Other distributors, like Distributormalaysia.com, provide models such as the TLD6070 and TL531 series, which support dual-wavelength testing, insertion loss measurement, and fiber tracing.
