

Sierra Leone Transformation

Overview

The Ministry of Public Administration and Political Affairs (MoPAPA) has launched a comprehensive 2026 transformation agenda. The initiative aims to overhaul the civil service through data-driven management, enhanced training, and legislative reform. Sierra Leone has pioneered a comprehensive approach that coordinates all development activities around five strategic priorities, creating unprecedented alignment between vision and implementation. Seraphine Wakana, UN Resident Coordinator in Sierra Leone, reflects on a new programme in Moyamba that addresses health. FREETOWN, November 6, 2025 - Sierra Leone's economy is showing signs of stability in the face of heightened global challenges, with growth projected at 4.3 percent in 2025 and reaching 4. The resulting political instability and rising social tensions, combined with preexisting factors such as systemic corruption, a lack of accountability, a weak rule of law and inefficiencies at all. Sierra Leone's journey toward the 2030 Agenda continues against a backdrop of resilience, reform, and transformation. Despite ongoing global economic shocks, climate pressures, and governance complexities, the nation has demonstrated steadfast commitment to advancing sustainable development, peace.
